

'Let's Go, Eastern Blues' All the Way with Dallas

By STURGIS HEDRICK

"LET'S GO, Dallas!"

That was the war cry yesterday on the East Carteret High School baseball diamond and it had a triple meaning.

IT MEANT, "Let's go, Dallas Arthur," and win this ball game. That, the Eastern Blues and their prize left-hand pitcher did, 5-0, in their critical contest for the first-quarter lead in the Seashore League. The Blues, defending champions, now have won 5 straight to take over the undisputed top from the Carteret Tides.

"Let's go, Dallas" also meant let's keep this momentum at full steam to the Blues' second league championship. The Down-easters have won 19 in a row since President Andy McKinney started the circuit last year. Yesterday's loss, by the way, was the first of the season for Carteret pitching ace, Jim Solomon, and the Tides.

BUT, ABOVE all else, the irrepressible war cry signified, "Let's go, Dallas" and "Let's go, Blues" right onto the National Baseball Congress Regionals in Roxboro, N. C., around July 1. That carries on to the World Series of the amateur diamond.

It was old home week for Dallas Wayne Arthur, age 22, 6-1, 180 pounds, and his happy-go-lucky grin. He

(See ARTHUR Pg. 4)

Dallas Arthur hurls the Eastern Blues to a 5-0 victory against their top rival in the Seashore Baseball League, the Carteret Tides.

Sports News

Call 726-7081