

Blues shortstop Dale Lewis takes throw from catcher Randy Grady, but not in time to prevent a steal by Tides outfielder Rodney Kemp. Watching the play is Blues second baseman Manley Gaskill. While a number of Tides reached base, none of them made it home.

of the league when he clouted two ferocious circuit drives, both in the 8-run fifth inning. They boosted his round-trip total to 4 for the season. But, even then, the Red Sox barely won by a whisker, 13-12, over the tenacious Braves in Salter Path.

WE'LL BE hearing a lot more from Jack Doughtry, who played his first game in five years. But his bat boomed a resounding tune in the clean-up spot for the Braves. He enjoyed a 4-for-6 day at the plate with a double, a stolen base and a run-batted-in.

Remember back when? Doughtry, Allie Reynolds and Vic Raschi all toiled together with the Richmond, Va., AAA farm club of the New York Yankees.

Welcome back to the big leagues of amateur ball, Jack Doughtry.

YET PERHAPS the biggest story of the day unfolded in Beaufort, where the Sea Dogs hammered out their first win of the season. They triumphed, 11-7, over the always-tough Western Blues. Steve Piner showed the courage of a real Sea Dog when he pitched the full 9 innings, weathering a stormy 5-run 8th.

Shortstop Tony Hancock and first-baseman Dan Lawrence were top Beaufort gunners at bat. Each clouted a double in 3-for-5 trips. Not a bad Mother's Day.
