

ardment with two in the eighth inning. Stoy doubted and Benton singled, scoring Stoy. Centerfielder Myron (Ace) Harris, showing great indifference, fielded the ball very sloppily on Benton's hit for an error, and while Benton rounded second and started for third, Harris leisurely strolled over between puffs of a cigarette to pick up the ball and return it to the infield.

The throw went on through Brown, playing third, to allow Benton to circle the basepaths and score a "home run" on a single. Brown was charged with an error for missing the throw.

Chapel Nelson, managing the Marshallberg nine, then proceeded to make a very wise move that probably was respected as such by all who like to see baseball played all the way up to the hilt; he allowed Pate, a good pitcher who tried his best, to finish the game on the mound and immediately yanked Harris out of the lineup and replaced him with a substitute.

Marshallberg's final tally came in the ninth inning. Hamilton reached first on an error and took second on pinch-hitter Moore's single. After Billy Davis whiffed, McKaney forced Moore at second, Hamilton going all the way in from second to score. McKaney tried to make second on the play, but he was caught, first baseman to the second baseman.
