

Baseball Play To End Sunday At Salter Path

Atlantic will travel to Salter Path Sunday afternoon for the last doubleheader of the county baseball league season. The twin bill will decide the play-off championship.

Atlantic won the first game in the best two-of-three series at Atlantic last week. One victory for Atlantic or two by Salter Path will be necessary to clinch the title.

Trophy to Winner

Immediately after the game the championship trophy will be awarded to the winner, along with championship arm patches for the players on the team.

Atlantic has won 27 games while losing two this season and is favored to win Sunday. Salter Path has a reputation for coming from behind when things are toughest, though, and can't be discounted from the race.

Atlantic Wins 22-6

Last week Atlantic took a 22-6 verdict that left Salter Path fighting mad and anxious to humble their opponents when they come to Salter Path.

Both teams have formidable lineups. Purcell Jones, Eugene Haskett and Harold Bass are three of the most dangerous batters in the league. When they advance on the plate to swing 'ember, Salter Path fans perk up and opposing fielders get ready for anything.

Good Hitters

Atlantic can counter with some pretty fair hitters of its own. Manager Roy Cockerham won the league batting championship with a lofty .533 average. Carroll Willis bettered the .500 mark during the season and four other Atlantic batters were over the .400 mark.

Atlantic has lefty Thomas Salter and righthander Butch Saunders to throw against Salter Path. The home team will counter with Mel Adeox or Jarvis Guthrie.
